New grading system

EPC revises proposal

Educational Policies Committee has revised its grading system proposal and position on related academic policies. Final decision on the proposal will not be reached for several weeks.

Two key changes, according to Dr. Ronald Matthias, dean of faculty, are restoration of the 'D', grade which was deleted from the first proposal in favor of a No Credit clause. In addition, opportunity to change a No Credit grade has been eliminated.

New definition of grades no longer includes an 'F' or a fail option. Revised designation is 'N' for no credit.

AS BEFORE, grades 'P' and 'PO' earn academic credit but are not used in computing cumulative averages. Grades 'W' and 'N' do not earn credit and are likewise not used in computing averages.

While the first proposal had no academic standing of Incomplete—simply a substitute of No Credit, the grade 'I' has been restored.

Under the new proposal, students may withdraw from a course from the second through the thirteenth week of a term with grade 'W.' This was implemented "to rid the system of the triple negative nature of an 'F,'" Matthias said.

He explained the connotation as the symbol itself, having to repeat the course and compensating by raising the grade point average.

REGARDING ACADEMIC HONORS, two changes are apparent—first, that a student who has elected a Pass-Fail option cannot appear on the Dean's List.

Furthermore, standards for conferring graduating honors have been raised because it is the committee's feeling that grade points have increased so that many receive a 3.25 average to make graduating cum laude less of an honor that it once was. New scaling requires 3.4 for cum laude.

With the new proposal, academic probation would no longer be recorded on transcripts. Also, instead of transferring both credit and grade point, as is presently done, only credit would be transferred.

Mural graces library wall

Art majors Chris Fredrick and Dave Kamm have begun work on painting the walls of Engelbrecht Library's "fun corner."

Covering the north wall of the room, the supergraphic design is not meant to depict or represent anything specific and there is no main theme.

Miss Fredrick and Kamm are concerned only with forms and balance.

"We want to keep the wall 'open' and complement the design of the furniture," Chris commented.

Head Librarian, Mahlon Peterson plans to use the adjacent east wall, most of which will remain white, to exhibit Wartburg students' art.

Letter shows destructive tactics of a few

Although the retirement of Mrs. Lola Reppert has unfortunately been finalized by Regent's action, it appears that Wartburg may be dealing with the side effects of the case for some time. The letter printed in the adjoining columns, the handiwork of a few students, has allegedly been sent to 175 prospective students with a promise to continue sending it.

Many of the allegations in the letter could be substantiated in part, but on the whole, the letter is fraught with distortion, misrepresentation and downright falsehood. The fact that the writers chose to point out these problems at Wartburg without indicating that they also exist at other institutions of higher education raises some questions about the motives of the writers.

IT WOULD BE COMMENDABLE for college students to encourage high school seniors to look deeper into the colleges they are considering, but it is apparent that such noble motives were not uppermost. Such information could be a positive factor if it were provided objectively and included surveys of other institutions but this particular letter appears to be a personal vendetta of individuals who feel very sorry for themselves and need to lash out at someone or something.

We hope that recipients of this masterpiece will request other observations and opinions before making any decisions.

The possibility of such a letter was presented to Admissions Director Vic Pinke as a threat to gain support for the retention of Mrs. Reppert, and was one of several tactics on the part of a few individuals. It would be unfortunate if such actions would reflect on all social work majors and it must be remembered that this letter is the product of a few and not generally endorse by social work majors.

Such tactics only serve to cloud the issue, alienating fringe support from among the students and faculty, and making a negative decision in the case easier to justify to some.

LOOKING BACK, we feel that the case against Mrs. Reppert was improperly handled and that the decision to retire her was a poor one. Despite the complexities of the situation, we feel that considerations for the continuity of the department were not fully recognized. We not only refer to procedures but to the basic orientation of the department. In her stay at Wartburg, Mrs. Reppert and others have brought a reform approach to social work that has been a boon to social welfare and to the growth of the department. We feel that this orientation was a key to the department's success and that a basic change will be a loss to Wartburg and to social welfare in Iowa and elsewhere.

However, we must condemn the petty destructive actions of the self-styled cult of Wartburg "revolutionaries" and hope that more responsible persons and actions will prevail in keeping Wartburg social work in a position of prominence and relevance to the needs of the times.

Students withdraw from Regents appeal

By Lyle Hallowell

A decision not to retain Mrs. Lola Reppert on the Wartburg faculty was made by the Regents Executive Committee following an appeal of Mrs. Reppert's retirement.

Members of the committee present at the meeting last Wednesday, were Chairman William Engelbrecht, the Rev. Don Loots, Robert Buckmaster, the Rev. Dean Kilgust and R. G. Ruisch.

At the appeal meeting, four of five student representatives withdrew from the appeal and requested that the procedures be changed to an open meeting.

Those four, Sandy Becker, Dave Boedy, Dave Huston and Pat McClintock, requested an open meeting in which arguments of both sides could be heard and responded to by all concerned and indicated Mrs. Reppert's support of an open meeting.

When that request was denied in order to respect the confidentiality of the testimony, the four students expressed a willingness to meet again under different conditions.

Other groups, whose testimony was kept confidential, included contact with social welfare agencies, information from the Wartburg appointment and rank committee and statements by President Bachman and Dean Matthias.

According to Dave Huston, "Since secrecy and closed decision making were, in part, what we have been protesting, it was decided that unless the appeal was an open discussion with participation by all groups, it would not be recognized as the appeal that was requested."

Carol King remained and voiced student concern for continuity in the department. Regents responded that difficulties had arisen in the retention of possible replacements and that continuity was threatened in that way as well.

A poll of social work majors was taken before the appeal, of the 95 respondents, 86 per cent favored retention of Mrs. Reppert while 14 per cent were against it or undecided.

Huston said that a full explanation of the student's actions and reactions would be available today in the social work office.

Looking to the future of the department, Dave Boedy said, "Our next step will be to play a decisive role in the selection of new faculty for the department."

Eds. note--

The letter printed below was forwarded to the admissions department by a prospective student who had received it by mail.

If you are planning to attend Wartburg College in the near future perhaps you'd better think again.

Having been students here for the past several years, we feel that it is important for us to tell you about some of the things we have experienced about life at Wartburg.

If you are seriously planning to invest $2800 of your money or your parents' money in this school, perhaps you'd like to hear some personal viewpoints held by some of the "consumers" of this particular "product" -- a Wartburg education.

We have been dissatisfied with many things, some of which we first noticed as freshmen. Some examples are the dorm living conditions, the food, the loss of civil rights, and the lack of social activities. More recently, our eyes have been opened to other dissatisfying situations.

The climate on campus this year more than ever, is one of general discontent. Several factors are responsible for this, the most important one being the gross lack of communication between administration, faculty and students, which is partly due to the lack of meaningful student representation in the decision-making. This failure in communication aggravated the race relations on campus to the point of open confrontation. Lack of an adequate gun policy has created a situation where upon occasion, students have to fear for their lives.

The administration has done everything possible to prevent students from sharing decision-making power in matters which concern them. Perhaps you have heard about the "new" governance system which is advertised in the college catalog and admission brochures. This "new" system has turned out to be a cruel joke on the students.

Students still have little say in the decision-making. The governance plan is an example of the tokenism practiced by the administration. Although students have been given a few seats on most committees, nearly every committee remains dominated by the administration and faculty. Worst of all, students are excluded from two of the most important college committees: the one dealing with the hiring, firing, and promotion of faculty members and the Budget Committee.

Thus, students who are in the best position to evaluate the effectiveness of an instructor, have nothing to say about whether the instructor is retained or not. Another ironic result of the governance system is that students have nothing to say about how their money is being spent. In fact, this information is withheld from the students entirely.

This leads into another source of discontent--the secrecy which surrounds the administration. Students are not allowed access to committee reports or the budget. Students never learn about decisions made on grading policy, curriculum, or hiring and firing of faculty members until the action has already been taken by the administration.

In spite of the underhanded way in which this institution is operated, we were exposed to many positive experiences in the Social Work Department through our teachers--Mrs. Lola Reppert and Mr. Bob Lohman. For the first time, we began to examine our values, and consider what our education meant to us. We learned many meaningful things, not only in the classroom, but also through working with welfare recipients and people in the community.

Recently, the administration has decided to cut off these educational experiences. They have done this by refusing to fund the Welfare Answering Service, a student and faculty operated service which meets the need of low-income people as well as providing an educational experience for students. The administration has also turned down a proposal for an adequate number of instructors needed to teach 130 majors. The final blow was the firing of two of our three social work faculty members--the Chairman, Mrs. Lola Reppert and Mr. Bob Lohman--who have been the heart of this department over the past years. These two people have given up personal gain to teach students and help the poor people of Iowa.

These firings are not isolated incidents; several excellent teachers have been fired by the administration for questionable reasons. We, as "consumers" of this "product," feel that this intolerable situation must come to a stop NOW! Some of us are graduating, many of us are transferring. Do you want to enter this type of a "community"?

One last word of caution. Wartburg needs students very badly. You will very likely be offered some financial aid as an inducement to attend Wartburg. It is only fair that you should know that this aid will probably be withdrawn after your freshman year and given to an incoming freshman. This is what happened to several of us.

If you have any questions, we would be very happy to answer them. Please write!

Black federal official calls for understanding commitment

By Judy Newell

New understanding and stronger commitments are needed to improve economic conditions and opportunities for blacks and other minority groups, according to James Frazier, a new member of the U.S. Department of Transportation.

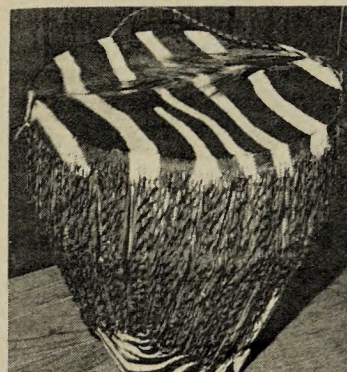

"We have helped produce, but never reaped the benefits," said Frazier at the first Black Awareness program on Tuesday. Frazier added that "we must increase upper mobility," placing qualified members of minority groups in managerial and supervisory positions.

"When the economic conditions improve, housing, education and other factors will improve for the minorities," he continued.

According to Frazier, an "affirmative action program" for minorities was begun in 1961 with President Kennedy, but it wasn't until last May that goals and time-tables were endorsed by President Nixon, who said that it is the responsibility of the department heads to plan programs that:

1. Appropriate funds and resources;
2. Use skills of each employee to the fullest;
3. Provide employees with opportunities to enhance their skills;
4. Provide training and advice to managers and supervisors to assure their understanding of the problems;

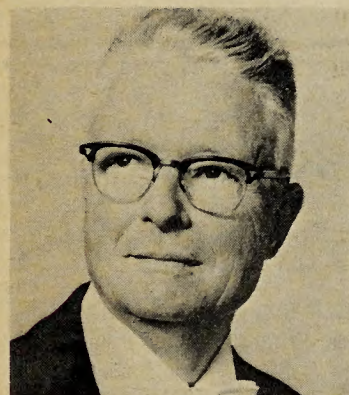

African objects on display at the Black Cultural Center include this ceremonial drum from Kenya. The Afro-American Society commissioned Wartburg President John Bachman to purchase them when he was in Africa last fall.

5. Work in cooperative efforts with local community people to improve living conditions;

6. If all these programs are working, create an evaluative system to determine the success of programs.

"Prejudice and clothes are two of the things we aren't born with," said Frazier. "We acquire as we go along in life."

Three primary causes of prejudice, according to Frazier, are attitudes instilled in young people by parents and other adults, lack of communication and unfounded rumors and half-truths perpetuated by news media.

Preview of choir's touring program will be given April 11 and 13 at 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Waverly. Spotlighted will be a multi-media presentation of Aaron Copland's "In The Beginning." Miss Irene Weldon of the music faculty will be soprano soloist.

Choir's four-state itinerary includes a recording session in Minneapolis for another record which should be available in June.

Band's tour will be a culmination of the year's performances. First half of the concert will consist of traditional music with excerpts from Band Aid Follies rounding out the remainder of the program.

In addition to appearances in Iowa, Illinois and Wisconsin, band members will also take several "educational sidetrips," according to Dr. Robert E. Lee, director of the band.

Golf, tennis open seasons

(NEWS BUREAU)

Wartburg College's golf and tennis teams are scheduled to open their seasons this week.

Dr. Roger Bishop's racketmen played at the University of Northern Iowa yesterday, while Lee Bondhus' golfers are slated to tee off against Central at Pella Saturday, April 8.

Both teams will be opening with a minimum of outdoor practice. The golf squad hasn't been out at all yet, and the tennis team has had only about a half dozen workouts.

Bondhus' golfers will have a week break following their opener, but the tennis team has a full schedule.

Following their debut at UNI

Thursday, the racketmen will be at home Saturday, April 8, in a double-dual with Buena Vista and William Penn, at Luther Tuesday, April 11, at the Central Invitational in Pella Saturday, April 15, and then at home to UNI April 19.

The Buena Vista-William Penn meet will start at 9 a.m. on the campus courts, and the Wartburg-UNI dual April 19 is to get under way at 3 p.m.

The golf line-up is still wide open, but Bondhus anticipates playing his three lettermen somewhere: junior Tom Fetter, sophomore J.D. Gardner and senior Mark Will.

Dr. Bishop has a little better idea of who he'll be starting: sophomore Don Crawford, senior John Burke, junior Joe Crawford, junior Frank Coughlin, senior Keith Paroubek and sophomore Rich Wahl.

Trackmen open outdoor at Penn

(NEWS BUREAU)

Wartburg College's track team will open its outdoor season Saturday with a dual at William Penn.

The Knights, who have been out of action since March 17-18 when they placed third in the Skoglund Indoor Invitational at Northfield, Minn., also have a dual at Wisconsin State of Platteville Wednesday, April 12, before they enter the Iowa Conference Relays at Pella April 14.

New coach Gary Gordon said his club was making good progress in conditioning before the Easter break, but he admits the cold, snowy weather has been a hindrance since.

The Knights last year placed second in a triangular with Mankato State and William Penn, 21 points ahead of the Statesmen, and then repeated that performance in the Iowa Conference meet, finishing second, 23 points ahead of the Oskaloosans.

Wisconsin State and Wartburg tied in their only meeting last spring, 87-87.

No team standings are kept in the IIAC relays, but the Knights last year dominated that meet, placing first in seven events. However, just one of those champions is back, pole vaulter Tom Jenkins of Lorain, Ohio, who set a relays record with a vault of 14'5 1/2".

Knights open with loss

Wartburg's diamondmen will open their 1972 Iowa Conference season tomorrow at the University of Dubuque.

Last year, Dubuque went winless in 18 conference games to hold down last place in the final standings while Wartburg finished one place ahead with a 5-12 record.

The Knights opened the 1972 season on a losing note, dropping a game to the University of Northern Iowa 8-0.

UNI easily gained its third straight victory, holding the Knights to two hits while collecting twelve.

Tanner was the winner and Doehrmann was the loser in the game played at Cedar Falls last Wednesday.

Wartburg will play a heavy schedule next week, meeting UNI on April 11, Loras on April 13 and Central on April 15. The UNI and Loras games will be at home.

The Knights were able to get outside for a little scrimmaging before play and, because of that, Coach Earnest Oppermann said, "We're much further along than we were last year at this same stage."
